

COMPARATIVE TAX LAW: THEORY & PRACTICE

SATURDAY
October 3, 2009

9:00 AM to 4:30 PM

Hutchins Hall
Room 236

9:00 to 9:30 AM OPENING REMARKS

Mathias Reimann, Editor, American Journal of Comparative Law and Professor, University of Michigan Law School
Reuven Avi-Yonah, Professor, University of Michigan Law School

MORNING SESSION: THE THEORY OF COMPARATIVE TAX LAW

9:30 to 10:30 AM Carlo Garbarino, Professor of Taxation, Bocconi University, Milan and Visiting Professor, University of Michigan Law School

10:45 to 11:30 AM Omri Marian, SJD Candidate, University of Michigan Law School

11:30 to 12:15 PM Nicola Sartori, International University College, Turin and SJD Candidate, University of Michigan Law School

12:15 to 12:30 PM Discussion

AFTERNOON SESSION: THE PRACTICE OF COMPARATIVE TAX LAW

2:00 to 3:00 PM Round Table: Practical Applications of Comparative Tax Law

Reuven Avi-Yonah (moderator), Professor, University of Michigan Law School
Hugh Ault, Professor of Law, Boston College Law School
Brian Arnold, Professor Emeritus, University of Western Ontario and Consultant, Goodmans LLP
Victor Thuronyi, Senior Counsel, International Monetary Fund

3:15 to 4:30 PM Round Table: Can Comparative Tax Law Have Practical Applications?

Reuven Avi-Yonah (moderator), Professor, University of Michigan Law School
William Barker, Professor, The Dickinson School of Law, Penn State
Assaf Likhovski, Associate Professor, Tel Aviv University Faculty of Law and Visiting Professor, UCLA Law School
Michael Livingston, Professor, Rutgers School of Law-Camden